Earnest Glover
Marketing Assistant
for the Lighthouse for the Blind Inc.

Earnest Glover went to Newberry college, where he graduated class of 1997 with a B.S. in Mass Communications. After school, Earnest went on to pursue several different endeavors. He started a few clothing stores, worked as a technical director for WLTX News in South Carolina, and moonlit as a theater professor for Charleston Southern University. Earnest is not afraid of anything!

Earnest's current title is marketing assistant, but he also holds another role at the Lighthouse. As part of the National Industries for the Blind, he enrolled in the Public Policy Advocates program, where he is able to advocate on the behalf of his coworkers, and the greater blind community, to represent on the federal, state, and local level.
