Carolyn Murray

Carolyn Murray co-anchors the 4pm, 5pm, 6pm, and 11pm editions of Count On News 2 on WCBP-TV in Charleston. She also co-anchors the 10pm news on the Lowcountry CW Network, digital channel 2.2.

Although Carolyn was born in New York City, she says, "saltwater runs through my veins." She is a 1984 graduate of Burke High School in Charleston and a 1988 graduate of the University of South Carolina in Columbia. Carolyn is also a Riley Fellow, and a member of the Diversity Leaders Institute class of 2010.

Carolyn began her journalism career in Charleston in 1988 as the news and public affairs director at WPAL-AM then became the news director at WMGL-FM in 1989. The same year, her career moved her in front of the camera as a news anchor and reporter at WCSC-TV, where she worked for 12 years. In 2001, Carolyn moved to Chicago to work as a consumer reporter at WBBM-TV. She returned to Charleston in 2003 as an evening anchor for WCBP-TV.

Carolyn has earned many journalism awards for anchoring and reporting. She was awarded Southeast Region Emmys in 2000, 2016, and 2020 for anchoring and reporting, as well as numerous awards from the South Carolina Broadcasters Association and South Carolina Associated Press for anchoring and reporting during her 35 year broadcasting career.

In 2021, Carolyn was recognized by the Radio Television Digital News Association of the Carolinas for Special Report- Emanuel AME: Faith, Fellowship and Forgiveness, 2021 (short) Podcast of the Year, and as 2021 TV News Anchor of the Year. She was awarded the Community Impact Award for a special report on the International African American Museum in 2023 by the Radio Television Digital News Association of the Carolinas and 2023 News Anchor the Year.
