Mount Pleasant Waterworks

Natalie Lawrence is the Communications Manager at Mount Pleasant Waterworks, where she leads the public voice of the community-owned utility that delivers safe, reliable water and wastewater services to nearly 45,000 Mount Pleasant customers every day.

Natalie brings more than 25 years of communications experience to that work, grounded in a deep passion for public service and the organizations that make communities worth living in. Over her career she has led communications programs for some of the Charleston region's most beloved civic institutions, including the Charleston County Public Library, the South Carolina Aquarium, and the Charleston Regional Development Alliance. She has also worked in the architecture, engineering, and construction industry, both as a director of brand and communications for engineering firms and as the founder of her own strategic communications consultancy. She holds an MBA from The Citadel and a bachelor's degree from the University of Pittsburgh and is an active member of the South Carolina section of the American Water Works Association and the National Association of Clean Water Agencies.

Tony Hill knows water. For the past 12 years, he's been part of the team at Mount Pleasant Waterworks that makes sure safe, clean water flows to every home and business in our community. Tony came to MPW after working as a Plumbing and Fire Sprinkler Designer for an engineering firm, which gave him a solid foundation for water treatment operations. Today, as a supervisor, he oversees the operation of four Reverse Osmosis plants and the town's distribution system.
